For the first time, a single reference identifies medical technology assessment programs. A valuable guide to the field, this directory contains more than 60 profiles of programs that conduct and report on medical technology assessments. Each profile includes a listing of report citations for that program, and all the reports are indexed under major subject headings. Also included is a cross-listing of technology assessment report citations arranged by type of technology headings, brief descriptions of approximately 70 information sources of potential interest to technology assessors, and addresses and descriptions of 70 organizations with memberships, activities, publications, and other functions relevant to the medical technology assessment community.

Millions of Americans enroll in clinical studies of experimental drugs and medical devices each year. The HHS and the FDA are responsible for overseeing independent institutional review boards (IRB), which review and monitor human subjects research, with the intended purpose of protecting the rights and welfare of the research subjects. Kutz investigated 3 key aspects of the IRB system: (1) the
